The Digitizing Global Trade (DGT) Project is an Alliance partner project of German Federal Ministry for International Cooperation and Development (BMZ) and Deutsche Post DHL Group (DPDHL).

It aims to modernise international trade by adding digital solutions to enhance efficiency and reduce risk and will be implemented initially in 5-6 countries. As part of a larger strategic cooperation spanning 10 years, this Alliance partner project will eventually be rolled out to up to 30 countries worldwide.

This session will provide first insights on the project approach and participants can expect a fruitful discussion amongst experts.
